

FEBRUARY 12, 2020 - ESTHER MULLER & ACE IN THE NEWS

Brokers Go Back To School

ACE co-founder Esther Muller, pictured with students at a recent class, will have Real Estate Weekly Managing Editor Linda O'Flanagan speaking at an upcoming panel.

The Academy for Continuing Education (ACE) enters its 25th anniversary year with a first-day speaker roster that includes industry icons and journalists as part of the three-day 2020 Spring Symposium. Among the guest speakers slated for the opening session on Wednesday, February 26, are Linda O'Flanagan, managing editor, Real Estate Weekly, author and New York Times writer Julie Satow (The Plaza and Faith Consolo, A Life of Real Estate...And Secrets), data guru Jonathan Miller, president and CEO, Miller Samuels Real Estate Appraisers and Consultants, best-selling author Steven Gaines (Sky's the Limit: Passion and Property in Manhattan), Compass power broker Leonard Steinberg, and Reuveni Real Estate CEO Shlomi Reuveni. The afternoon portion will include a media panel with Lois Weiss, The New York Post, Katherine Clarke, The Wall Street Journal, and Erin Hudson, The Real Deal.

"This is a milestone anniversary and we are celebrating with an awesome group of speakers, starting day one," said Esther Muller, Academy for Continuing Education co-founder. "Our students will be exposed to invaluable information from pillars of the real estate community, as well as many of the 'rock-star' writers who report it!" Other guest speakers slated for the first day include Sotheby's International Senior Vice President and Attorney Marissa Ghesquiere and real estate attorney Jerry Feeney.

The continuing education studies will take place over three consecutive Wednesdays, on February 26, March 4, and March 11, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., in the Grand Ballroom at the Three West Club, 3 West 51st Street. For more information, visit realestateacademy.com.